COMMUNIQUÉ

The Department of Basic Sciences and Humanities is one of the oldest departments in Future Institute of Engineering and Management. It has been instrumental in the growth and development of the college, and crucial to the flourishing and success of students .

The trademark of this department has been, focus on students, prioritising their needs and their requirements always. The faculty members of this department take active interest in the holistic development of students, both within and outside the curriculum. It is not surprising that students, past and present, have appreciated the conducive ambience and support mechanism of this department.

Dr. Jhumur Ghosh
